Presents

Ethical Advice for Judges: American and Australian Perspectives

Professor Melissa Hart

Professor of Law, University of Colorado Law School
Director, Byron R. White Center for the Study of American Constitutional Law

The Colorado Judicial Ethics Advisory Board (JEAB) is an 11-member Board appointed by the Justices of the Colorado Supreme Court to offer ethical guidance to judges. Professor Hart will discuss the workings of this Board as well as its interaction with other institutions that participate in the regulation of judicial conduct in Colorado. She will also compare the Colorado system to those in other U.S. states and to the U.S. federal system. Each of these systems is constrained in some measure by the constitutional foundations of the judicial system and the flexibility -- or lack of flexibility -- that the relevant constitution gives for monitoring and addressing judicial ethics.

Australian Commentary: The Hon. John Doyle AC QC
Former Chief Justice of the South Australian Supreme Court

The Public Law & Policy Research Unit contributes an independent scholarly voice on issues of public law and policy vital to Australia's future. It provides expert analysis on government law and policy initiatives and judicial decisions and contributes to public debate through formulating its own law reform proposals.
